

Berlin all-inclusive: visitBerlin offering new city ticket

- Free admission to 30 attractions and unlimited public transport
- Available from €79 in Berlin Tourist Information centres, at berlin-welcomecard.com, and at turbopass.com
- New city pass will be released in time for ITB

Berlin, 6 March 2017 The all-inclusive package for visitors to Berlin: the new Berlin Welcome Card all inclusive from visitBerlin in cooperation with Turbopass makes sightseeing in the German capital even more convenient. The official Berlin city pass includes admission to many of the city's most popular tourist attractions and also unlimited rides on public transport. The all-inclusive tourist ticket will be released in time for ITB.

The Berlin WelcomeCard all inclusive includes admission to 30 highlights across the city. Yet another great way to keep the travel budget in check. The highlights include selected national museums in Berlin, such as the Pergamon Museum and the Bode Museum, and private museums such as C/O Berlin, the Jewish Museum, and the DDR Museum. A hop-on, hop-off bus tour and a boat cruise are also included as is admission to Berlin's TV Tower and Madame Tussaud's. The city guide that comes with the pass provides valuable insider tips and the city map points the way to all of the participating sites.

All of Berlin with a single card: discover the capital from just €79

The Berlin WelcomeCard all inclusive is available from €79 for adults and €49 Euro for children ages 3 to 14. It is available for three durations: 48 hours, 72 hours, and four calendar days. The Berlin WelcomeCard all inclusive includes public transport in the city of Berlin and the surrounding region. It will be sold at Berlin Tourist Information centres, at berlin-welcomecard.com, at turbopass.com, and by many travel organisers. The Berlin WelcomeCard all inclusive is being offered in partnership with Turbopass.

In addition to the Berlin WelcomeCard all inclusive, the Berlin WelcomeCard is also available. For as little as €19.90, the Berlin WelcomeCard offers unlimited travel on Berlin public transport and discounts of up to 50 per cent at more than 200 tourist and cultural attractions across the city.

visitBerlin

"We know Berlin." This is the slogan that Berlin Tourismus & Kongress GmbH, operating under the trade name visitBerlin, has been using since 1993 to advertise Berlin globally as a travel destination. The visitBerlin Berlin Convention Office markets the city as an event location for conferences and conventions. Berlin's popularity as a tourist destination continues to grow: With more than 30 million overnight stays in 2015, the German capital is busier than ever. The city is also in great demand as a place to hold conferences: Berlin is currently the #1 destination for conferences and conventions held by international organisations. As a tour operator, the company offers a wide range of travel packages and also issues the official tourist ticket, the Berlin WelcomeCard. visitBerlin operates six Berlin Tourist Information Offices across the city. The Berlin Service Center (Tel. +49 (0) 30 25 00 25) provides information on the complete range of tourist offerings in Berlin. The website visitBerlin.de provides information about the capital in 14 languages.
